DYNAMITE KILLS 3

Injure Seven Near Canning Factory at McHenry, One Dying Later

LEGS AND ARMS TORN FROM BODY

Workman Thawing Explosive for Blasting Drops Stick of Dynamite and It Kills Him and Two Others.

Three persons were killed and seven injured by the explosion of a stick of dynamite near the McHenry canning factory last week Wednesday afternoon and one has since died.

John Hilt of Cleveland, Ohio, was in charge of the dynamite, which was to be used in blasting near the canning factory. He was about to place a stick of dynamite into a pile of water to thaw it out when it fell, evidently striking several other sticks which lay in a box. A terrific explosion followed, which was heard for at least six miles.

The dead are: John Hilt, Cleveland, Ohio.

William Phalin, McHenry, a merchant, who was watching operations.

Elmer Dewey, Hartford, Wis., one leg blown off, died from injuries.

The injured are: Oliver Moore, McHenry, ankle smashed.

Clarence Cobb, McHenry, head, body and face lacerated.

Ray Lamphere, McHenry, leg and hip injured, died later.

Frank Cobb, McHenry, back bruised.

Charles Geske, McHenry, face cut.

Charles Phalin, hip bruised.

Thomas Powers, McHenry, legs cut and face bruised.

Elmer Dewey, who had one leg blown off and was critically injured about the body and face, died the next morning, despite the fact that physicians remained with him during the night and did all that was possible to prolong his life.

In the case of Ray Lamphere, whose legs and hip were injured, blood poisoning set in and he died on Saturday despite the efforts of the best medical skill.

Oliver Moore, whose left leg was crushed at the ankle, had his limb amputated below the knee. His condition is critical.

Charles Phalin's condition also is considered critical.

As blood poison has set in those who were injured are in a critical condition.

At least 500 people gathered at the scene of the accident after the explosion. The injured were removed to their home and nearby residences where all the available physicians were summoned. One of Hilt's legs was blown entirely off, the other nearly so, and one arm torn almost off. He lived in this condition nearly an hour.

William Phalin bled to death. He was a well known resident and a miller by occupation.

The factory which was the scene of the accident is being located west of the O. and N. W. railroad tracks. The construction company has been at work for two weeks erecting the factory, which is owned by a stock company composed by McHenry residents. The object of the company is to can tomatoes, etc.

A Severe Cold For Three Months.

Exchange Screenings.

The next great national exposition will be held at Jamestown, Va., on the site of the old colony planted under the direction of Captain John Smith in 1607. Work upon this exposition, which is bound to awaken a feeling of interest in every citizen of the republic, has been started. The site of Jamestown has been a ruin since the town was burned at the time of Bacon's rebellion. The ground has now been laid off according to the landscape architect plans, and work is about to start on the buildings.

A teacher in one of our old country schools had a class of young scholars before her in mathematics. The examples were in addition and the following illustration was offered by the teacher: "Now children, if I lay four eggs on the desk and Sammy," she pointed to a freckled-faced lad at the head of the class, "should you lay three eggs on the desk, how many would there be?" The bad boy of the class, who had listened intently, shouted: "Go on Sam! Take her up! I don't think she can do it."

Notwithstanding all that is daily written, published and spoken about advertising, there are still too many business men who do not give proper weight to its importance in the field of trade. It has been said and truthfully, that there is no business that cannot be profitably advertised in some manner. And the merchant who is content to sit back and dismiss the subject without having investigated the possibilities of profit for himself in some method of advertising, betrays a very limited appreciation of the necessities of modern business.

A celebrated lawyer and governor of Mississippi had been employed to defend a fellow indicted for stealing a horse. The evidence was plain against him, but the governor made such a powerful speech that the jury at once acquitted him. After he was turned loose, he was accosted by a friend: "Now, Peter, honor bright, did you steal that horse?" "Well, Sam, for a long time I thought I stole him; but since I heard the governor, I don't believe I did."

The North-Western railroad has been demonstrating for three weeks that the smoke nuisance, so far as railroad locomotives are concerned, can be abolished. Its system consists in using smokeless coal and in a careful and right supervision of firing. Hereafter no other kind of fuel will be used in the district east of Canal street, Chicago. This district includes the passenger yards of the company and also all the freight yards which extend along the river from Wells street to Lake Michigan.

"You can always tell a young husband from an old one by the way he acts in the garden," says the editor of the Killeen (Tex.) Herald. "Three months married, he digs, whistles, smiles and casts covert glances at the house as though some one was looking at him from a window. One year married, he digs, smiles at turns, and seems to be annoyed at breakfast being late. Two years married, he digs a little, looks sour and glum, kicks the dog or cat and looks toward the house as though he would like to choke some body. Three years married, he sits on the doorstep and smokes while his wife does the digging."

Foley's Honey and Tar.

Cures coughs and colds. Cures bronchitis and asthma. Cures croup and whoopingcough. Cures hoarseness and bronchial troubles. Cures pneumonia and lagrippe. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Glasgow's Drink Bill.

Glasgow, Scotland, spends on drink $16,000,000 a year, an average of $21.25 a head.

Dangers of Pneumonia.

A cold at this time if neglected is liable to cause pneumonia which is so often fatal, and even when the patient has recovered the lungs are weakened, making them peculiarly susceptible to the development of consumption. Foley's Honey and Tar will stop the cough, heal and strengthen the lungs and prevent pneumonia. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Curvature of the Earth.

The curvature of the earth for one mile equals 0.866 feet.

One would think the laxative idea in a cough syrup should have been advanced long before it was. It seems the only rational remedy for coughs and colds would be to move the bowels and clean the mucous membranes of the throat and lungs at the same time. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar does this. It is the original laxative cough syrup, the best known remedy for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, etc. Tastes good and harmless. Sold by J. H. Swan.

HAVE GRAVE FEARS

Friends of Miss Schaeffer, a Missionary in China, Fear for Her Safety

WORKING IN THE HAINAN ISLANDS

Kenosha County Woman Who Has Been Working as a Teacher of Religion for Many Years

Friends of Miss Kate L. Schaeffer of the town of Somers, Kenosha county, Wis., who is now serving as a missionary in the province of Hainan, China, are beginning to have fears for her safety. With the general up-rising of the lower classes of Chinese against the foreign missionaries it is feared that Miss Schaeffer is in extreme danger. Thus far no serious outbreaks of the natives have been reported from the island of Hainan, but the island is known to be in the very center of the revolutionary districts and an outbreak may be expected at any time. The last letters received from Miss Schaeffer showed that while prepared for any outbreak she had not been molested.

During the Boxer riots several years ago she was time and again in houses which were attacked by the Boxers, but she escaped without injury. For several weeks Miss Schaeffer and her assistants slept with rifles under their pillows and the house in which they were living was closely barricaded to prevent an attack. At that time the schools and churches in which Miss Schaeffer had been teaching were stoned and wrecked and several of the natives who had been attending the services were killed by the natives. Miss Schaeffer remained at her post of duty until she was forced to leave and then she left in the night and made a trip of thirty miles on foot in order to reach an American consulate where she secured the protection of the American flag. Shortly after she returned to her home in Somers for a long rest.

Miss Schaeffer has always been very popular in Hainan, and even the natives who are unalterably opposed to the coming of the Christian religion have shown her many courtesies.

Miss Schaeffer was sent to China by the Mission board of the Presbyterian church and her work has been largely carried on by funds furnished by churches in Somers and in Milwaukee. She has been at work in Hainan for more than ten years and in that time she has accomplished a great work. She has built up Christian schools and churches and converts secured under her teachings number many hundreds. A time of the Boxer troubles many of her schools were torn down, but they have been rebuilt during the last few years.

A wholly consecrated woman Miss Schaeffer has won the admiration of the government officials in Hainan, and she has the constant care of the English as well as Chinese officials. This fact it is thought will prevent her being harmed should the present revolutionary outbreak spread to the island.

Death of Mrs. Oren Olcott.

Matilda Olcott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Rudolph, was born in Antioch March 8, 1873, and passed from this life on Friday Feb. 23, 1906, after an illness of nearly three months. On October 26, 1899, she was united in marriage to Oren Olcott, to whom she bore four children, Oscar who is about six years of age and Raymond about four. Besides her husband and children she leaves to mourn the separation her parents, two sisters, Mrs. Fred Maitron of Wilmot and Mrs. Herman Schultz of Big Foot Wis., and three brothers, Frank of Wilmot, Charles of Denver and Albert of Channah.

Mrs. Olcott lived all her life in the vicinity of Antioch and her many friends know her sterling worth. She was a dutiful and affectionate daughter, a faithful and devoted wife, a wise and loving mother and a true friend. She will be sadly missed from the circle of her family and friends where any gathering was happier for her presence.

The funeral was held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Olcott at one o'clock Monday afternoon, Rev. McNamer officiating. Among the floral tributes was a magnificent bouquet of lilies presented by the Irwin lodge, Court of Honor. The body was laid at rest in the Antioch Hillsides cemetery.

Our dear one has gone to sleep Smiling sweet in peaceful rest, We would not strive her soul to keep, God wills it so. He knoweth best. Oh how her friends and kindred all, Will sadly miss thee from our throng, They'll listen for thy summoning call, And join thee with angels in heaven 'ere long. We will place our flowers on thy new-made grave, A symbol of the happier life, God taketh back the life He gave, Thow'lt free from this world of care and strife. --A Friend.

In San Francisco Eugene Peguillian, 20 years old, was shot and killed in a quarrel with Benjamin Meyers, of about the same age. A satchel containing $600 was stolen from Miss Mary Tharo, the cashier for Simon Hubbig, wholesale baker in Cincinnati, when she started for the bank. Mrs. Dolly Carpenter and Grover Baughman, charged with attempting to wreck a Pennsylvania train at Tiffin, Ohio, were adjudged insane and taken to the State hospital at Toledo. Prosecutor Platt is satisfied that the prisoners are insane and agreed to this disposition of the case. Mrs. Carpenter finally admitted her part in the attempted wreck, after having stoutly denied the charge.

The general office building and part of a machine shop of the Bethlehem Steel Company in South Bethlehem, Pa., were destroyed by fire, causing a loss of about $200,000. The fire originated in the kitchen of the cafe on the second floor of the office building. The large drafting rooms were on the fourth floor, in the vaults of which were kept the valuable designs for military equipment and other products of the works. The vaults crumbled in the blaze and their valuable contents were destroyed.

REFORMS FOR LIFE INSURANCE.

New York Committee Presents Report to Legislature.

In a merciless and thorough arraignment the insurance investigating committee of the New York Legislature reviewed the situation it has uncovered. After making a number of recommendations for reform the committee in its long-expected report summarizes the sensational testimony it brought out and showed how matters could be remedied.

Absolute prohibition of campaign contributions, strict regulation of all life insurance investments, limitation of new business and the participation of every policy holder in the election of company officers—these are a few of the proposed cures.

Lobbying is denounced as pernicious and needless in plain terms, and the Legislature is told that it owes it to itself to stop the practice. As to campaign contributions, the report says:

"The frank admission that money has been obtained for use in State campaigns in the expectation that candidates thus aided would support the interests of the companies has exposed both those who solicited the contributions and those who made them to severe and just condemnation. The committee recommends the passage of an unequivocal and drastic measure to remedy this evil."

Matters demanding the consideration of the Legislature for the purpose of remedying existing evils and of establishing more securely the business of life insurance in this State are grouped under the following heads:

1. Organization of life insurance corporations.
2. Control, or the rights of policy holders in the election of directors.
3. Retirement of stock.
4. Investment including syndicate participations.
5. Limitations of new business.
6. Political contributions.
7. Lobbying.
8. Limitation of expenses.
9. Valuation of policies.
10. Rebates.
11. Surrender values.
12. Ascertainment and distribution of surplus.
13. Remedies of policy holders, or right to resort to the courts.
14. Forms of policies.
15. Publicity and State supervision.
16. Penalties.

The committee accepted a number of suggestions and incorporated them in the bill as passed. Those who voted against the bill were Bacon of Georgia, Bailey of Texas, Foster of Louisiana and Tillman of South Carolina.

The bill makes it a misdemeanor to manufacture or sell adulterated or misbranded foods, drugs, medicines or liquors in the District of Columbia, the territories and the insular possessions of the United States and prohibits the shipment of such goods from one State to another or to a foreign country. It also prohibits the receipt of such goods. Punishment by a fine of $500 or by imprisonment for one year or both is prescribed.

By its provisions the Treasury Department and the departments of Agriculture and of Commerce and Labor are required to agree upon regulations for the collection and examination of the articles covered by the bill. The investigations by the Department of Agriculture are placed in the hands of the chief of the bureau of chemistry and if he finds that the law has been violated the United States District Attorney is required to institute proceedings in the federal courts.

POLITICS and POLITICIANS

Congressman Olmsted of Pennsylvania expressed this opinion: "It takes a man about four terms to familiarize himself with his office."

The late Senator Henry L. Garrett, once the ablest Republican member of the Virginia Legislature, was a first cousin of United States Senator Foraker of Ohio.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier will be one of the guests at the Erie, Pa., chamber of commerce banquet, where he will meet Vice President Fairbanks and Senators Penrose and Knox, who will be the other guests.

Congressman Victor Murdock of Kansas is credited with being the most proficient pianist in the House. It is his ruling passion. Next to this he loves newspaper work, which he understands thoroughly.

James B. McLaughlin is the only member of the District of Columbia bar with two distinct professions. He is an excellent lawyer and preaches regularly to Washington congregations, being an ordained Methodist minister.

Henry Labouchere retires from parliament without regret from the women of Great Britain, for whom he had no sympathy. It was he who referred to the aristocratic dames of the "Primrose league" as the "Primrose Pollies."

Having stepped out of politics, former United States Senator W. A. Harris of Kansas is negotiating for the purchase of his old Linwood farm, which he sold while in straitened circumstances, brought on by dabbling in politics.

Senator Crane of Massachusetts is an expert judge of paper. When he opens his letters in the Senate he may be seen crinkling the paper between his fingers and holding it up to the light to observe the water mark before reading the communication.

John Rouse has been in charge of the main door of the House at Washington for thirty years. He is the youngest veteran of the Mexican war on the House list and was a drummer boy at the battle of Vera Cruz, where he lost a part of his left arm.

John Morley's notes of his speeches are always interesting owing to his power of condensation. He has devised some condensations that would not pass muster with the printer. One of these consists of a dot in the middle of a capital "O." This represents "in the middle of the world."

GROSVENOR IS DEFEATED.

Veteran Congressman and Party Leader Falls of Renomination.

The political world received a shock when the Republican convention of the Eleventh Congressional District of Ohio refused to renominate General Charles H. Grosvenor, known by his long tenure of office as the "Sage of Athens" and "Old Statistics." General Grosvenor, who is now serving his tenth term in Congress, is one of the floor leaders of the House of Representatives, and while politicians all over the country know the veteran had a contest on his hands it was believed he would be returned. As the district is normally Republican by 10,000 the nomination is considered equivalent to election.

General Grosvenor belongs to the old school of politicians. He was born in 1833 and came out of the Rebellion a brevet brigadier general of volunteers. He practiced law, but politics has been his profession for twenty years, and he soon made a wide reputation as one of the most forceful speakers in the list of Republican spellbinders. During the two McKinley campaigns General Grosvenor made a hit by predicting Republican success, naming the States the party would carry and guessing the respective pluralities. These feats won him the nickname "Old Statistics." In Congress he is called the "Sage of Athens," as his home is at Athens, O.

General Grosvenor was elected to Congress first in 1884 and has served continuously since then, with the exception of the Fifty-second Congress, being defeated in 1892 when the Democrats swept the country and elected Grover Cleveland. His long series made him a power at Washington and with Speaker Cannon, Payne of New York, Dalzell of Pennsylvania and Hepburn of Iowa he is considered one of the wheel horses of the Republican organization. General Grosvenor was a delegate at large to the national conventions of 1890 and 1900. He is chairman of the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

Mr. Douglas, who beat General Grosvenor, is a lawyer, 53 years old, and a good orator. He has dominated the politics of Ross County for years. Mr. Douglas was a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor of Ohio in 1890, but was defeated. In 1896 he was a presidential elector on the McKinley ticket. Mr. Douglas is a graduate of Kenyon College, class of 1872, and of the Harvard Law School.

Physician Testifies Patient Cannot Attend to Business.

In habeas corpus proceedings in the Common Pleas Court at Columbus, Ohio, the other day Dr. E. J. Wilson, the attending physician, testified that Governor Pattison, because of his bodily illness, is incapable of sustained attention to any subject. To a question put a moment later, he said that the Governor was sane, but that he was so weakened in brain and body that he could not give to any subject continued thought. It is said on the best authority that the family of the Governor is anxious that he resign and devote himself to seeking health.

The testimony of the Governor's physician created a profound sensation, and in every place where public men are congregated is the whole subject of conversation. The testimony that he is incapable of sustained thought is of grave consequence to the people, and there is universal fear that the newly elected executive may never be able to carry out his plans of government.

A Garage in Every Flat.

The latest scheme for making apartment houses attractive to wealthy residents of Chicago has just been announced by the Aeromotor Company. This projected structure is seven stories high, with an elevator capable of lifting the largest automobile and its occupants to any floor. On each floor is a large garage and quarters for the chauffeur and servants.

FATHER GAPON IS UNMASKED.

Revealed as Tool of Russian Government Against Revolutionists.

St. Petersburg dispatches say that through the disappearance of the Journalist, Matsushensky, the press agent and real brains of the Father Gapon movement, the disclosure has been made that the moderate labor organization, which Gapon established in St. Petersburg after the publication of the Imperial manifesto of Oct. 30, 1905, was subsidized by the government. Russian officials supplied the funds for the rent of its clubhouse and literature.

Radical circles are elated over the revelation, which was made in an open letter by the president of the Putloff section of the organization, complaining that $12,000 of the funds furnished through M. Timiriazoff, until recently minister of commerce, had not reached the treasury. The socialists claim that this spells the downfall of the conservative opposition to the full revolutionary program among the workmen.

It is now shown that Gapon really played a minor role in the formidable movement of January, 1905, and that Matsushensky was the director of the campaign which mystified both the police and the old-time revolutionists. Matsushensky was the author of the great petition with which the workmen were marching to the winter palace on Red Sunday, Jan. 22, 1905, to present to the emperor when the troops fired on them.

A curious commentary on the conditions prevailing in the cabinet's action in opening clubhouses, for which the government furnished the money, when up to the present Interior Minister

Durnovo has not permitted assemblies of conservative workmen, which are dispersed as rigorously as those of the socialists.

PLAN DIVORCE STRINGENCY.

Conference Wants Two-Year Limit in Place of Residence.

Divorce colonies were given a severe jolt by the congress on uniform divorce laws in Washington, which decided by a considerable majority that not less than two years' residence should be required of a plaintiff who has changed his or her State domicile since the cause of divorce arose. Another resolution reported by the committee on resolutions, which was adopted after a warm discussion, provides:

"An innocent and injured party, husband or wife, seeking a divorce should not be compelled to ask for a dissolution of the bonds of matrimony, but should be allowed, at his or her option, to apply for divorce from bed and board. Therefore divorces a mensa should be retained where already existing and provided for in States where no such rights exist."

The congress also expressed itself in favor of hearing all divorce cases in open court and not before any delegated representative, holding that publicity would tend to do away with collusion and to decrease the number of suits. Other resolutions adopted provide for the classification of causes for divorce into groups that would be accepted by the several States; declare that when conviction for crime is made a cause for divorce it should involve two years' continuous imprisonment; that no decree should be given for insanity arising after marriage, nor for desertion unless persisted in for two years; that defendants in suits should be given full and fair notice, and that anyone named as a co-respondent should in all cases be given an opportunity to intervene.

CONGRESS

In the Senate Tuesday discussion of the pure food bill occupied most of the day. Mr. Rayner presented the reply of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad to the charge of discrimination made against it by the Red Rock Fuel Company of West Virginia. Mr. Gallinger presented petitions from residents of Oklahoma praying for prohibition in the proposed State of Oklahoma. A committee was appointed to attend the funeral of Representative George A. Castor of Pennsylvania. Announcement of the death of Representative George A. Castor of Pennsylvania was made, and the House took an immediate adjournment out of respect to his memory. Speaker Cannon appointed a committee to join a Senate committee to attend the funeral in Philadelphia.

After fifteen years of consideration of the subject, the Senate Wednesday passed a pure food bill by a vote of 63 to 4. The session was largely taken up by debate on the measure, and several efforts were made to amend, only those approved by the committee reporting the bill being accepted. Senator Smoot received another endorsement, this time from Mr. Warren. He presented a big petition from the women of Wyoming, praying for the expulsion of the Utah Senator, but expressed himself as occupying the opposite position. Chairman Hull of the military affairs committee presented the army appropriation bill to the House, urging the necessity of complete preparedness for trouble in the Orient. The bill carries a total appropriation of $40,678,592, which is less by $1,921,168 than the amount asked by the department. Mr. Hopkins (Ky.) uncovered many methods of inducing migration to the United States, which he condemned. Mr. Shepard (Texas) urged tariff reform to obviate retaliatory tariffs by other nations. Mr. Powers (Me.) spoke against the abolition of custom-houses as a matter of economy, and Mr. Macon (Ark.) answered his arguments.

Mr. Knox's railroad bill was introduced in the Senate Thursday and was accorded the unusual privilege of a reading at length. The hazing bill was passed without division after several amendments had been made. Mr. Tillman presented a petition from the Independent Oil Refiners' Association of Tinsville and Oil City, Pa., asking relief from alleged discrimination, declaring that the railroad freight rate on refined oil in barrels from the oil regions to New York harbor for export had been increased to a prohibitive point. Mr. Clapp from the committee on Indian affairs reported the bill for the settlement of the affairs of the five civilized tribes by urging immediate action. The bills authorizing the purchase of coal lands in the Island of Batan, P. I., and amending the Philippine tariff act on textile fabrics and shoes were passed. Washington's farewell address was read by Mr. McCreary. The army appropriation bill was the subject of prolonged debate in the House, the members refusing to adjourn in honor of George Washington. The discussion of the bill was exhausted. Mr. Gilbert (Ky.) made a speech opposing the ship subsidy bill, and the debate then took a wide range. The conference report on the urgent deficiency bill was agreed to.

The Senate was not in session Friday. The Tillman-Gillespie resolution calling for an investigation of the ownership of coal and oil properties by the railroads was passed by the House, after being amended so that it will have to go back to the Senate for consideration. The famous Mussel Shoals bill, providing for the development of water power on the Tennessee river in Alabama, sent back by the President for amendment, was passed.

The Senate was not in session Saturday. In the House several minor bills were passed by unanimous consent. They included a bill authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to reclassify the public lands in Alabama. Also the following bills: To extend the provisions of the homestead laws to certain lands of the Yellowstone forest reserve; to extend the time one year in which the Kensington and Eastern Railway Company shall complete its bridge across the Calumet river in Chicago. At 1 o'clock the pension calendar was taken up and 410 bills were passed in sixty-four minutes.

In the Senate Monday Senator Tillman reported the Hepburn railroad rate bill. Senator Aldrich made a brief statement of the position of the five Republicans who opposed it in committee. Mr. Cullerton moved that his own bill on the measure, and it was ordered printed and subject to the table until the rate bill is taken up. Mr. Clapp called up the bill to dispose of the affairs of the five civilized tribes in Indian Territory, and it was discussed at length. Mr. Dick, in the afternoon, occupied the floor, speaking in behalf of the statehood bill. A number of bills of local importance were passed, including one for the erection of a $75,000 public building at Alton, Ill. Legislation for the District of Columbia occupied the first hour of the House session, eight local bills being passed. Two hours of hot debate on the question of allowing the incorporation of the Lake Erie and Ohio River Ship Canal Company followed, but the matter did not come to a vote. Representative Klefer of Ohio introduced a bill providing for the reduction of the representation of the Southern States in Congress because of the disfranchisement of the negro. Resolutions of sorrow at the death of David B. Henderson were passed.

RHEUMATIC PAINS

Disappear When Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Purify the Blood and Heal Inflamed Tissues.

Rheumatism is a disease of the blood, caused by the failure of the body to cast off certain poisons. External applications are of use only in securing temporary relief from pain—the cure for rheumatism lies in purifying and enriching the blood.

Mrs. Frederick Brown, of 40 Sumpter street, Sandy Hill, N. Y., was a sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism from the time she was sixteen. She says: "It first appeared in my knee joints, then in my hips and waist. It became a regular thing that I would be laid up all winter. The rheumatism affected mostly my hands, hips, feet and shoulders. My hands were all puffed up and my feet became deformed. I lost my appetite, couldn't sleep and sometimes I was compelled to cry out, the pain was so intense."

"For several winters I was under the doctor's care and while his medicine relieved the pain for a little while there seemed no prospect for a permanent cure. I was confined to my bed, off and on, for weeks at a time. My limbs swelled dreadfully at times and I was reduced almost to nothing."

"In the spring of 1904, upon the advice of a friend, I began to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. At that time I wasn't able to do anything and could barely eat enough to keep alive. I felt a change for the better in about a month. I began to eat heartily and I suffered less pain. Of course I kept on the treatment, using care in my diet, and in about three months I was cured. I am entirely well today and do all my own work."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured Mrs. Brown by driving the rheumatoid poisons out of her blood. But you must get the genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, sold by all druggists and by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and driving it out of the system by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. One Cause of Poverty.

A Philadelphia man was praising the late Mary Mapes Dodge. "Wise woman as she was," he said, "Mrs. Dodge considered organized charity rather cold. She believed in the charity spirit, which, she said, was best fostered by the direct personal contact of recipient and giver. Hence she never refused a beggar. And, defending herself from attacks one day, she narrated a conversation she once overheard between two Maryland tramps, or 'peach plucks.' These peach plucks, as they lay under a tree on a superb afternoon, philosophized. 'Bill,' said said the first, 'why is it that poor people is always willin' to help us, while rich folks always turns us down?' The other, with a mirthful laugh, replied: 'Them that don't mind givin' things away is the ones that stays poor.'—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Determination.

"I believe that in an election the best man should win," said Senator Sorghum.

"That is a proper and patriotic sentiment."

"Yes, sir. And I have my own ideas about who the best man is, and I'm going to see that he does win, no matter how many votes are cast against him."—Washington Star.

FOOD AND STUDY.

A College Man's Experience. "All through my high school course and first year in college," writes an ambitious young man, "I struggled with my studies on a diet of greasy, pasty foods, being especially fond of cakes and fried things. My system got into a state of general disorder and it was difficult for me to apply myself to school work with any degree of satisfaction. I tried different medicines and food preparations but did not seem able to correct the difficulty."

"Then my attention was called to Grape-Nuts food and I sampled it. I had to do something, so I just buckled down to a rigid observance of the directions on the package, and in less than no time began to feel better. In a few weeks my strength was restored, my weight had increased, I had a clearer head and felt better in every particular. My work was simply spurt to what it was formerly."

"My sister's health was badly run down and she had become so nervous that she could not attend to her music. She went on Grape-Nuts and had the same remarkable experience that I had. Then my brother, Frank, who is in the postoffice department at Washington city and had been trying to do brain work on greasy foods, cakes and all that, joined the Grape-Nuts army. I showed him what it was and could do and from a broken-down condition he has developed into a hearty and efficient man."

"Besides these I could give account of numbers of my fellow-students who have made visible improvement mentally and physically by the use of this food." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

ILLINOIS STATE NEWS

ILLINOIS WINS DRAINAGE CASE.

United States Supreme Court Rules Against Missouri on Use of Ditch.

Chicago and the sanitary district were declared victors by the United States Supreme Court in the famous case of the State of Missouri vs. the State of Illinois. The case involved the right of the city of Chicago to divert the sewage into the Mississippi river through the drainage canal and the Illinois river. Justice Holmes delivered the opinion of the court, which was that Missouri did not prove its case. There was no dissenting opinion. Thousands of pages of evidence were submitted during the litigation. Experts made tests all along the Mississippi and Illinois rivers. By a restraining order it was sought to prevent the use of the canal for the purpose it was intended. The struggle in the courts dragged along, the mass of evidence growing day by day calling for additional lawyers. Bitter feeling was manifested at St. Louis and it was charged that the sewage carried southward by the streams polluted the water supply not only of that city but others along the rivers. Analyses and tests made at hundreds of points tended to show that while pollution existed in the northern waters, germs which travel under sunlight and over sand and stones are destroyed.

FRESH SCANDAL AT PEORIA.

Deed of People's Bank Made Out to Rev. Mr. Simmons.

Receiver John B. Wilton of the People's Savings bank in Peoria, has discovered the deed to the bank building, which had been missing since the minister killed himself. While the building was bought with the funds of the bank, the deed was made out to George H. Simmons only, thus revealing an effort to swindle his partner, Rev. B. L. Kelly, who owned a half interest in the building. The discovery of the deed has caused consternation among the 600 depositors of the bank. It had been regarded as the chief asset, its value being placed at $40,000. As it is in the name of Dr. Simmons, the widow will receive her dower rights and the personal creditors of the estate an allowance of their claims, the residue, if any, going to the depositors pro rata. Sensational developments in the case of the banker-preacher were made in the Probate Court when the widow asked the appointment of an administrator of the estate. Her statement showed that her husband had dissipated $30,000 she held at the time of their marriage, giving her worthless notes representing the amount. Since his death investigation conducted by the sheriff showed these notes to be forgeries.

BREAKS ICE FOR SUICIDE.

Peorian Then Deliberately Holds Head Under Water Until Dead.

With the greatest deliberation F. R. Avery, treasurer of the Avery Manufacturing Company of Peoria, committed suicide by breaking the ice on a small pond near Centerville and holding his head under water while he lay on the shore. Advice received as to the effect that Avery the previous night had tried to commit suicide in a hotel at Cairo, but had been prevented, and that a guard had been placed over him. During the night he escaped from the guard. The next day the passengers on a north-bound Illinois Central train that stopped at Centerville noticed a man leave the train, walk toward a little pond and lie down near the edge after having broken the ice with his feet. The matter was talked about on the train and when it reached East St. Louis an inquiry was telegraphed back to Centerville. The agent replied that a man's dead body had just been found lying by the pond. A note said: "I am going in the river at St. Louis Feb. 15, 1900."

Frank E. Dooling, who is under indictment for the alleged embezzlement of funds from Springfield District Court No. 25 of the Court of Honor, was tried by the supreme board of directors of the society on a charge of conduct prejudicial to the interests of the organization and found guilty. He was formally ousted as a member of the supreme board of directors and O. L. McCord of Danville was elected to fill the unexpired term. Dooling holds that the board has neither jurisdiction nor authority to hear evidence for the purpose of removing him from office and says he will appeal to the supreme body when it meets in Detroit next May.

ST. VIAEUR COLLEGE BURNS.

Most of Records at Bourbonnais Incinerated.

Fire destroyed St. Viaeur's college at Bourbonnais Wednesday night. Only the gymnasium escaped the flames. The fire started in a private room on the third floor and spread rapidly. The students, led by Brothers Bergin and Ryan, fought heroically to save the building. Most of the records were saved, together with 15,000 volumes of books and statues and vestments from the Roy Memorial chapel. The school will be closed for a few days, but it is thought the higher courses will be continued. The enrollment is 250. Most of the students are from Chicago. The loss is $150,000, with insurance of $125,000.

$14,000,000 TROLLEY MERGER.

East St. Louis and Alton Electric Lines to Consolidate.

L. C. Haynes, vice president and general manager of the East St. Louis and Suburban Electric line, has announced that all the stockholders of that company and of the Alton, Granite City and St. Louis Electric Railway Companies have signed a preliminary agreement for the consolidation of the two companies. The attorneys are now at work on the details, and it is expected that within six weeks the merger will have been completed. The merged roads will have $14,000,000 capital and connect twenty-one towns with a population of about 100,000, with 175 miles of track.

CLEAR DOUGHERTY'S BONDSMEN.

School Inspectors Release Many from Embarrassment Liability.

After the most stormy meeting in the history of the Peoria school board, the members adopted a resolution which releases from liability for any part of the Dougherty shortage all the treasurers, bondsmen and banks involved in school affairs for the last eighteen years. The resolution looks only to Dougherty's estate for restitution. The board ignored an opinion from Judge David McCulloch, which held that the banks, treasurers and bondsmen were liable.

MAN DIES IN SALOON FIRE.

Head Being Crushed Makes Mattoon Authorities Suspect Murder.

Frank Berry, 21 years old, was burned to death in a fire which destroyed the Haskell livery barn and the Miller saloon in Mattoon. When the charred trunk was taken from the ruins the head was found to be crushed and the theory has been advanced that the young man was murdered and the building set on fire to conceal the crime.

BABY SLAYER IS SENTENCED.

John Wichert, Who Drowned His Child, Must Go to Penitentiary.

John Wichert, who admitted throwing his 3-month-old baby into the river in Chicago, was sentenced to serve fifteen years in the penitentiary by Judge Smith. A confession signed by Wichert was introduced as evidence and Wichert, when called to the stand, acknowledged his guilt. He said he was drunk when the crime was committed.

PEOPLE BURN A SALOON.

Owner Resuming Business After Sale Incenses "Dry" Element.

A building used for a saloon in Brooklyn was burned by anti-saloon people. The latter were incensed because the owner, a man named Boller, whose former saloon had been bought by the reform element to put it out of business, had started in the other place.

D. B. HENDERSON DIES.

PASSING OF A DISTINGUISHED CITIZEN OF IOWA.

Former Speaker of National House of Representatives Is Victim of Paralysis—Death Occurs in Dubuque Hospital.

Former Speaker David B. Henderson of the national House of Representatives died at 2 o'clock Sunday noon at Mercy Hospital, in Dubuque, Iowa, of paralysis, which attacked him nine months ago. He began to sink Friday afternoon, rallied Saturday morning, but in the afternoon lapsed into unconsciousness and failed rapidly until the end came.

Colonel Henderson was stricken with paralysis last May and his condition grew so grave that he was removed to a hospital in September. His condition remained unchanged except for the usual progress of such a disease until a few days ago, when he suffered another stroke, which resulted in total blindness. The former Speaker failed rapidly physically and mentally until Friday, when his mental powers returned for a few hours, followed by a relapse which ended in death.

David Bremner Henderson was born in Old Deer, Aberdeenshire, Scotland, March 4, 1840. The family came to America when David was 6 years old and settled on a rented farm in Winnebago County, Illinois, in 1846. A residence of three years in Illinois netted the family enough to move to Iowa. Going to Fayette County, they acquired a large tract of government land, which soon became known as "Henderson prairie" and still bears that name.

Young Henderson was a student at Upper Iowa University at the beginning of the war and his love for his adopted country led him to take the initiative in a movement which later resulted in a company being organized and sent to the war from Fayette County. Henderson was unanimously tendered the captaincy of the company, but he declined on the plea that he was too young and inexperienced. He did accept the position of first lieutenant.

The company of volunteers which young Henderson had organized among the young men of Fayette County was mustered into the service as company A, Twelfth Iowa Volunteers, and sent to Fort Henry, where they received their baptism in fire and blood. Henderson fell, struck in the jaw by a rebel bullet. The ball fractured his jaw. In the battle of Corinth Oct. 4, 1862, Lieutenant Henderson was again badly wounded, resulting in the amputation of a leg.

When a call came from President Lincoln for more troops the Forty-sixth Iowa Infantry was organized and Lieutenant Henderson, though he had already given a leg to his country, tendered his service and was elected colonel of this regiment and served until the end of the war.

In November, 1866, Colonel Henderson was appointed a Collector of Internal Revenue. He occupied this position until June, 1869, when he resigned to become a member of the law firm of Shiras, Van Duzee & Henderson.

Elected to Congress in 1862.

In 1862 Colonel Henderson was unanimously tendered the Congressional nomination for the Third District, and he was elected to the Forty-eighth Congress by a splendid majority. Work on the appropriations committee and as chairman of the judiciary committee made him for several years one of the foremost members of that body of intellectual giants, so it was natural that when Speaker Reed laid down the gavel in 1869 Colonel Henderson was the unanimous choice for that exalted place.

Colonel Henderson was elected Speaker of the House when Congress convened on Dec. 4, 1869. His reelection to the speakership in December, 1901, was insured by the election of an increased Republican majority in the House.

Colonel Henderson was serving his second term as Speaker and his tenth term in Congress when in the fall of 1902 he started the country by withdrawing from the political field. He served out his term in Congress and when he stepped down at the close of the session and turned over the gavel to Speaker Elect Cannon he was accorded one of the warmest demonstrations ever witnessed in the national house.

Colonel Henderson was married March 4, 1863, to Augusta A. Fox, who survives him. Three children were born to them, namely: Mrs. S. C. Penrose and Miss Belle S. Henderson of Dubuque and Don A. Henderson, of California.

LABOR NOTES.

When Workers Were Slaves.

Before the advent of trades unions, or less than 100 years ago, men, women and children worked 13 and 14 hours per day, and in a great many places 16 hours, says the Cigarmakers' Journal. History shows that in 1780 the working men and women started work in the morning at 4 o'clock, at 10 o'clock they had an hour for lunch, and at 3 o'clock an hour for dinner, from which time they worked until darkness. As late as 1830 women and children began work in some factories in New England at 4:30 in the morning, and worked an hour or two after sunset. One hundred years ago the bricklayers in New York worked 14 hours a day for 60 cents a day; to-day they have an eight-hour day at 60 cents an hour.

A union man named Michael Menton wrote a letter to one of the papers describing the condition of the bricklayers and while all of his charges were found to be true, he was arrested for libel and sentenced to 60 days in jail. Hence, to even say a word in defense of labor in those days was a crime.

The original American factories were governed by the most outrageous and oppressive regulations, in which regulations the worker had no voice. There was a time in the history of this country when the workers were taxed to support the churches, and fined if habitually absent from religious worship. Some able writers and historians have clearly proven that in some factories women and children were lashed with a rawhide if the overseer detected them snatching a moment's rest.

Herbert N. Casson says the city of Washington was built by workers who received about 50 cents a day and worked from sunrise to sunset; that at the commencement of the nineteenth century wages in New York were 40 cents a day, in Baltimore 30 cents, and that the average rate all over the country was 30 cents a day, with board and sometimes lodging.

These frightful conditions, low wages, long hours, poverty and degradation have been gradually overcome and steadily improved through trade union activity. In a great many organized trades the worker receives more in one month at eight hours labor per day than was formerly received by similar workmen in one whole year.

Industrial Notes.

A voluntary increase in wages, which benefits between 700 and 800 track foremen and track laborers, was put into effect by the Reading Railway Company recently.

The Iron Molders' Union, which has its national headquarters in Cincinnati, is one of the best conducted labor organizations in the country and has a membership of about 70,000.

Negotiations now going on for a new agreement between the Chicago painters and their employers promise to result in an amicable settlement. The employers are ready to grant the increase from 45 to 50 cents an hour demanded by the men, but in return they are seeking other conditions which the journeymen are not likely to accept.

The membership of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen on Dec. 1 was 78,238 and its officers say the 100,000 mark will be reached by the close of this year. The funds on hand Dec. 1 amounted to $1,113,434.16. During the month of December the insurance claims paid amounted to $140,000, making a total of $1,174,034.33 paid since the organization started in 1881.

The Cigarmakers' International Union is considering a plan of loaning the surplus funds of the organization to members on easy terms for the purpose of building homes or starting in business. Some of the British trade unions tried the experiment years ago and it worked successfully. Many workmen in England own homes which were built on money borrowed from the union, of which they were members.

The Reading (Pa.) Advocate says of convict labor: "The trades most affected by contract prison labor are the shoe workers, iron molders, garment workers and broom workers. Institutions recently visited employed a total of 4,253 convicts in the manufacture of boots and shoes. These 4,253 convict shoe workers are paid an average wage of 48 cents a day and they are turning out 25,340 pairs of shoes every day, which are dumped into the shoe market under various names and labels that are devised to conceal from the public their true character."

The election of 30 or more labor unionists to the British Parliament at the recent election is considered very significant. The entrance of labor unionists into politics in Great Britain is said to be the result of the Taft-Vale decision a few years ago, which held that the union was responsible in damages for all the consequences of the acts of its members acting for the union. The decision is said to have convinced the union leaders that the unions must enter politics to secure the ends they desired. Within the last three years the political activity of the unions has been great, and the surprising results in this year's election is the outcome. As members of Parliament receive no salaries as such, each labor member will receive $1,000 a year from his union.

According to a circular issued by President G. W. Perkins of the Cigarmakers' International Union, the annual production of cigars in the Philippines amounts to $20,000,000 and the wages paid in Manila vary from 25 to 37 cents a day. Of the 70 cigar factories in Manila, 48 are owned by Chinamen, who employ Chinese coolie labor and, with the exception of two, the other factories are owned by Europeans.

Prof. Behring, discoverer of a consumption cure, told a Berlin audience he would keep his cure secret until autumn.

JOHN HOCH IS HANGED

NOTORIOUS CRIMINAL MEETS FATE DEFIANTLY.

All the Delays of the Law Are Resorted To, and Prisoner's Hope Lasts Till Noose Is Fixed—Some Hoch History.

Johann Hoch, bigamist, robber and poisoner of women, paid the penalty of his crimes, when he was hanged in Chicago Friday. His neck was broken by the fall. Hoch hoped for a reprieve to the last and resigned himself to his fate only when the hangman's noose tightened about his neck.

A crowd surging into a gathering at an execution in Chicago since the anarchists were hanged in 1887, and as large as that of 1887, surrounded the jail. It numbered thousands. Curiosity to see what they could of the incidents surrounding Hoch's last moments attracted the crowd. The crowds openly gambled on Hoch's fate, many believing with the condemned man that he would again escape the noose.

A final effort almost without precedent in Illinois was made in Hoch's behalf a few hours before the time set for the execution. A petition was filed in the United States Circuit Court by Hoch's attorneys, asking that the Federal court interfere to save the condemned man. The petition stated the State authorities were endeavoring to execute Hoch in violation of the fourteenth amendment of the constitution, without due process of law. This move served only to delay the execution. It was the last act in the desperate legal fight, waged by Hoch and his attorneys to secure a new trial or a pardon, which resulted in placing Hoch three times in the shadow of the gallows instead of once, and extending his life eight months.

Hoch's Life a Mystery.

Mystery that has defied all past efforts to solve surround the early life of Johann Hoch. He is believed to have been born in Horweller-Dingen-on-the-Rhine, Germany, in 1857. When he grew into manhood he left his native town and returned in three years, marrying Mrs. Joseph Huff. He was first indicted for fraud in connection with a petition in bankruptcy which he filed. Hoch fled to a distant village, where he is said to have married again, but after securing the second wife's fortune he fled to America in 1883. He lived three months in New York and went under the name of Joseph Huff. Then he went to Wheeling, W. Va., where he married a widow who owned a saloon. In one month she was dead and Hoch had two saloons. An inquiry followed her death and Hoch fled after leaving his clothes on the banks of the Ohio river, to them attached a note stating that he had committed suicide.

The same year he came to Chicago and opened a saloon, where he met Bruno Leckner and was introduced to Mrs. Martha Steinhilber, whom he married. Thirty days after she died.

Then followed roamings all over the country, in which he is said to have married numerous women in various cities. He was in and out of Chicago much of the time, and in Cincinnati he married Mrs. Mary Bartels. When she died a month after the funeral was turned into a feast by Hoch. He left Cincinnati without paying the funeral expenses. He returned to Chicago and was convicted in Judge Baker's court of selling mortgaged furniture. In 1897 he was sent to the house of correction for that offense and served one year.

For two or three years he worked in the Pullman car works. The beginning of the end came when he married Marie Walcker, a widow. She answered a matrimonial advertisement in a local newspaper. She conducted a small candy factory, but disposed of it at the request of Hoch, who induced her to give him the proceeds of the sale. With her death followed his marriage to her sister, Mrs. Fischer-Hoch, and his subsequent disappearance and exposure.

Hoch's downfall began with his departure from Chicago with $700 that belonged to his last wife, Mrs. Fischer-Hoch. She was married to him the day after his former wife, her sister, died. He left her early in January, and the investigation followed that led to Hoch's arrest in New York. Hoch was placed on trial in Chicago April 10, 1905, for the murder of Marie Walcker-Hoch and was found guilty May 10. The jury was out thirty minutes.

Short News Notes.

Five colleges and the library have signified their willingness to co-operate in founding a university in Brooklyn, N. Y. A provisional incorporation will be made. Scores of persons were driven to the street in their night clothes by a fire at 297 Myerson street, the fashionable part of Brooklyn. Four families were rescued by firemen.

The Southern Pacific has completed a 30-mile piece of track around the Salton sink to replace the forty miles of track which is flooded by the waters from the Colorado river.

Midshipman John P. Miller of Lancaster, Ky., a cadet in the Annapolis Naval Academy, who was convicted of hazing and subsequently was pardoned by President Roosevelt, has been retained in the academy.

A verdict of accidental death was returned at Jamaica, N. Y., in the coroner's inquest into the death of Mrs. Francis Burton Harrison, killed in an automobile accident Dec. 18.

The three new cargo steamers under construction by the American Shipbuilding Company are for the Tonawanda Steel and Iron Company. They will be the longest boats on the great lakes.

MARION'S BRIGADE

By MAJOR J. H. ROBINSON

Cyrus Dix took Kate's hand, which she gently withdrew.

"I thought by your manner that you were about to communicate something of importance," said Kate, evasively, and with the least possible shadow of a smile, which being observed by Dix, gratified him very much.

"I was about to confide to your safe keeping a secret, which must transpire sooner or later. I do this as a proof of that strong yet tender friendship which I have cherished for you for many months. For the last few days I have not been idle. True to the great cause for which I have been constantly in the saddle, warning all the Royalists in this and the adjoining settlements to meet at an old field near the cross roads. I found them well awake for the enterprise, and to-morrow they will begin to assemble."

"Indeed!" exclaimed Miss Martin, with considerable emphasis.

"It is true," added the Tory; "and I have been promised a captain's commission. If you really feel that friendship for me that your glowing cheek and timid manner would seem to indicate, I trust you will keep this little piece of gossip a profound secret until we make ourselves known and feared by our deeds. It is always well to be guarded about matters of this kind. One of our first movements after getting fairly organized, will be to hunt up Gen. Marion and his rascally crew, and rid the country of such vagabonds."

"Do you suppose you can gather much of a company, Captain Dix?"

"About sixty resolute fellows as ever drew a sword; all mounted, too."

"It will be in your power to throw a strong protection around my father," said Kate.

"If his fair daughter proves kind and considerate, he shall suffer no harm in person or property," was the reply.

"And if she should not prove kind and considerate, what then?" asked the maiden.

"I will not be answerable for his safety a single day—no, not for a single hour!" exclaimed Dix, striking the table, emphatically.

"O dear, don't look so stern, Mr. Dix!" cried Kate.

"I made my last remark, gentle neighbor, that you might know precisely how the case stands. I wish you to look at the subject in a plain, reasonable and matter-of-fact way, and act accordingly. You must endeavor to influence your father."

"Must I?" asked Kate.

"I have said it, my dear, and pardon me if I insist upon compliance."

"Certainly, captain; you're so much deeper than I am, and know so much more about these things."

"You are the most sensible and reasonable of girls, and I shall always adore you. You do not think me positively hateful, do you?" asked Dix, in a coaxing voice.

"I will express my sentiments more freely at our next interview, perhaps," was the playful rejoinder.

Further conversation of this nature was prevented by the entrance of Mr. Martin.

Dix departed, and left Kate mistress of his secret, and greatly his superior in shrewdness. She had experienced considerable difficulty in controlling her virtuous indignation during the interview, but feeling that much good might result from the practice of some self-control and a little dissimulation, she had passed through the scene triumphantly. Her noble and ingenious mind at first revolted against the idea of deception in any case whatever; but as she looked into Dix's character, and perceived what he was trying to accomplish, she conquered her aversion, gained a deeper insight into his nature, and overcame him in the skillful playing of that game at which he considered himself an adept. The unutterable repugnance which she felt in her pure soul when he departed, must be left solely to the imagination.

Her father soon after remarked in her hearing that it was greatly to be regretted that a young man who appeared so honorable and honest in his intention, should embrace so bad a cause.

"Do you refer to Mr. Dix, father?" asked Kate. "Then I am sorry to be forced to say that you are egregiously mistaken in his character. A more unprincipled person I have never been my fortune to be acquainted with."

"Your words greatly astonish me," exclaimed the pastor. "You should not condemn Mr. Dix so severely on account of his political sentiments."

"You shall judge for yourself," answered Kate; and she rehearsed the conversation in detail which had transpired between herself and the party referred to.

Mr. Martin was exceedingly surprised at the unexpected relation, and felt that it was indeed difficult to judge of character by the outward seeming.

"Things have now assumed an aspect entirely unexpected," he added. "I am pained, embarrassed and indignant. We are placed in a most unenviable position. I have long known that the jealous eyes of our enemies are fixed upon me, and that I was not secure from personal harm for a day or an hour; but I had trusted that the hand of villainy would fall upon me alone, and not involve you, Kate. It seems that I have been mistaken, and have more to fear for you than for myself."

"Do not think of me, father—I fear nothing; on the contrary, it is for you alone that I tremble."

"Let not my danger distress you, for it is glorious to die for one's country. Whatever situation I may be placed in, let it never influence your conduct so far as Cyrus Dix is concerned. Pursue a high and truthful course, never violating your best convictions of right, or going counter to the still small voice of that divinity which presides in every bosom. A man like the party referred to can never be congenial to a nature like yours; hence no duty which you owe to me or to God can ever force you into any nearer relationship with him. I would die daily the death of the glibbert rather than have you connected with such a villain as Dix has proved himself to be."

"My own instincts would teach me to shun him, if you had never expressed your sentiments on the subject."

"In regard to this Tory gathering at the old field, near the cross-roads, it seems to me something ought to be done about it," resumed Mr. Martin.

"I have already considered the matter, and decided what ought to be done," replied Kate. "I propose to advise Marion's Brigade of the Tory gathering."

"But have you devised the means of its accomplishment?" asked the father.

"Certainly. I mean to carry the intelligence to Marion myself."

"You, Kate? That is out of the question. You would never reach the Santee if you should attempt it. You would be stopped by the Tories."

"You know that I am an expert horsewoman?"

"I know there isn't a colt in the neighborhood, and hasn't been for the last year, that you would fear to mount. You have caused me much uneasiness by your daring in that respect. You are a very good girl, Kate, but rather wild in some respects."

"My skill, acquired by such practices, may now be of some use to me. Victor, you know, is fleet and strong, and yet very docile; I can manage him when he is very restive under other hands. When it is fairly night, I will mount him and ride quickly from the settlement. If I am observed, no one will think strange of the circumstances, because I ride so much, and am so noted for that kind of exercise. Before morning I could reach Gen. Marion's camp, and to-morrow night the sabers of the brigade would wave in triumph over the place of the Tory rendezvous."

"Go, my darling Kate, and heaven will protect you!" exclaimed the pastor, fervently.

"With heaven's blessing and yours, I cannot fail," said the daughter, enthusiastically.

CHAPTER IX.

A large, powerful horse, whose black skin shone like polished glass, stood at Mr. Martin's door. Kate appeared, dressed in a dark and becoming riding habit. She approached the steed, who seemed impatient to be in motion, and fearlessly caressed his arching neck with her gloved hand.

Speaking soothingly to Victor, the daring maiden sprang lightly to the saddle, and grasping the flowing reins, felt that she was mistress of the motions of the noble beast.

She turned his head in the right direction, and while Mr. and Mrs. Martin invoked blessings upon her and her enterprise, rode away at an easy pace. When quite clear of the settlement, she no longer checked the fiery impetuosity of the steed, but suffered him to go forward at greater speed.

The moon had not risen; it was quite dark, and there were many lonely places to pass. Tories were very active and very plenty, and British dragons scoured the country in every direction; but Kate was not daunted by any of these considerations. She knew she was doing right, and felt ready and willing to suffer in the cause of liberty.

She had gone about three miles when she approached a wood of considerable extent. As she entered it, and the dark shadows fell more darkly across her path, she could not help reflecting upon the extreme loneliness of her situation. But she quickly shook off the momentary gloom, spoke cheerfully to Victor, and allowed him to go on a little faster. Soon after she heard the clattering of horses' feet, which grew more distinct and appeared to be approaching from the opposite direction. Although feeling somewhat anxious for the result, Kate resolutely pursued her way. It proved to be a single horseman, and he instantly stopped when near enough to distinguish the outline of her figure.

"Is it you, Miss Martin?" said a voice.

"I have spoken my name," replied Kate.

"I am Joe Sawyer," exclaimed the man.

"Oh, yes, I remember," she answered.

"You saved my life, Miss Martin; I shall never forget it. I've lingered about the neighborhood for several days, in hopes to get a glimpse of your sweet face. I think of you all the time, and sometimes I feel that it wouldn't be very wrong for me to get down on my knees and pray to you; because, you see, I owe you such a debt of gratitude, and can't never repay it. I know you'll despise me for acting as I have, but I can't help it now, and it's no use to cry about the past."

"You'll be a fine lad yet, I dare say," said Kate, kindly; "and you will doubtless wipe out the errors of the past by the doings of the future that is now before you."

"If everybody had been like you, Miss Martin, I shouldn't have been what I am; but they ain't and never will be. The bloodhounds of Captain Nick would soon have torn me in pieces, if you hadn't shown your blessed face just as you did."

"An offense like yours, I believe, is always punished with death," remarked Kate.

"I know it is; but we'll let that pass. Henceforth I care nothing about parties; I will serve you only; you shall be my queen, and I will be your subject. I swear to you a lifelong allegiance. I will be to you the most abject of slaves. There is no service so hard, so dangerous or so humiliating, but that I will not attempt it in obedience to your commands."

"Such language surprises me," exclaimed Kate.

"That's because you didn't expect gratitude from a man who could be base enough to betray his neighbors. You can say it boldly in plain words, if you want to, and I won't think hard of you."

"I am glad that you have redeeming qualities, Joe, but I cannot stop to talk with you now; I have far to ride."

"I shan't leave you, Kate Martin. I'll follow you anywhere that you please to go."

"To Marion's camp, Joe?"

"Yes. You can't shake me off. Go where you will, I'll tramp after you, see if I won't," added Joe, decidedly.

"But what possible motive can you have for persisting in such a strange course?"

"To look after you if you should be in danger, and die for you like a dog that perishes for his master," said Sawyer.

"But you were afraid of death the other day, Joe."

"I was engaged in a bad cause then. Miss Martin; and a bad cause makes anybody a miserable coward. Yes, I will go anywhere with you! So ride along, and I will keep near you."

"Indeed, Joe, I don't know as I can allow you to go with me."

"You can't help yourself. I'm bound to stick to you like shoemaker's wax, come what will."

"I don't think your horse can keep up."

"Then I'll lick him to death!" said Joe, and then added, "but there's nothing that wears hoofs that can keep out of his way, when in the course of human events speed becomes necessary; so go ahead, Queen Kate."

"You are resolved to follow, I see."

"You may believe it's a fact. Give that horse the rein. What a noble-spirited animal he is! You sit upon him as firmly as a trooper. Here we go, my queen and I. Now, for Marion's camp; and if they string me up, all I ask is just one tear from them heavenly eyes of yours."

"You shall have two, Joe—two as real tears as ever a queen shed over a devoted subject," responded Kate, gayly.

Miss Martin did not much regret that she was to have company during that long and dangerous ride. In some respects Joe might prove detrimental to the success of her enterprise, but in others he might prove of essential service. She had no reason to distrust the sincerity of his professions. So Kate went forward with a brave and hopeful heart, while Joe clattered along by her side, speaking only when he was addressed. A little before midnight the moon arose, and the maiden hailed the event with gladness.

As they were proceeding in the manner described, Kate perceived in the road a few yards before her the figure of a man. He was on foot and walked along slowly, as if engaged in thought.

A military cloak was thrown over his shoulders, which made Kate think that he was an officer, belonging probably to the British army, or heading some of the Tory bands that infested the country.

The man stopped when he heard the sound of horse's feet, and drew a pistol from beneath his cloak.

"It is Col. Cunningham," whispered Joe.

Kate's heart beat a little faster than usual, but she kept on as if she felt there was no reason why she should act differently.

"Cover your pretty face with your veil," said Joe.

She attempted to follow his well-meant direction, but the veil unfortunately had become entangled about the hat, and she struggled with the vexatious thing in vain.

"Stop!" exclaimed Cunningham, who, upon discovering that a young female, attended by a countryman, was approaching, had remained in the middle of the road, with the pistol still in hand.

"Who are you, and where are you going?" he asked, in an authoritative voice.

"This young lady," replied Joe, quickly, "is on her way to Camden."

"What for? Don't you know, my clodhopper, that Camden is in possession of Lord Cornwallis?"

"If it wasn't, this lady wouldn't be going there, I reckon," then?" returned Cunningham, gazing rather earnestly at Kate.

"Perhaps you're one of the Whig fellows," said Sawyer, artfully; "but I hope you won't interfere, seeing she's nothing but a female."

"Certainly not; but I have a little curiosity to see what she looks like. Turn your face in this direction, young woman," said Cunningham, condescendingly.

SAVING THE GOLD DUST.

Precautions Taken in the Manufacturing Jeweler's Establishment.

Washing machines seem all right enough in a laundry, but they would scarcely be looked for in the establishment of a manufacturing jeweler. Yet they play an important part in such a plant.

In a washing machine are washed daily all the aprons and all the blouses worn by the workers employed in the manufacture of articles of gold. Then the water in which these things have been washed is piped to a room where the gold contained in it is extracted and saved.

Particles of gold adhere to the hands and faces of the workers in the precious metal, and even get into their hair. Twice a day all the operatives wash their hands and faces; and the water is, like that from the washing machine, piped to the extracting room. Here there is installed a big filter, with its filtering section made of canvas and resembling outwardly the panted section of a giant square concertina, as it would look partly drawn out. All the water from the washing machine and from the wash bowls in the factory is forced through this filter, and at regular intervals the filtering section is taken out and the gold removed from it.

All the floors in the factory are covered with tar paper, which catches and holds all the gold particles that fall upon it. From time to time a new paper covering is laid on the floors, the old being burned for the gold contained in it.

By these means are saved in a factory annually thousands of dollars' worth of gold that without such precautions would inevitably be lost.—New York Sun.

It Surprised Her.

The amateur photographer, in the goodness of his heart, often promises copies of his pictures to any one who happens to be standing in range of the camera when it is "fired." Unfortunately, failing memory usually intervenes to prevent fulfillment of the promise.

It happened that a young man taking "views" on the summit of Fort Hill, Vicksburg, found a dilapidated cabin the foreground of one of them.

"Hello, there, aunty!" he called to the negro woman in the doorway. "Step out on the gallery and get in the picture."

"You golt' gimme one o' dem pictures?" she demanded.

"Give you a picture?" repeated the photographer. "No. Don't think it for a minute. Stand up and look your prettiest, now."

The old woman looked at him a moment in amazement. Then she turned and shouted to some one inside.

"Foh de land's sake!" she said. "O' man, come out yeah an' git youn' plecter took. Heah's a young man dat ain't a-jyn' about it. Dey's been two hundred people tooken plecters of me on dis galley, an' evey las' one o' 'em say he gwine sen' me a plecter—but nary plecter I ever see yit. Look youn' purtes, o' m'n. Dis young man look like he ain't tellin' no lies to us."

Beware of him who hates the laugh of a child.—Lavater.

NEW FOOD LAW

People now demand the right to know exactly what they eat.

To be told by maker or retailer that the food is "pure" is not satisfactory.

Candy may contain "pure" white clay or "pure" dyes and yet be very harmful. Syrups may contain "pure" glucose and yet be quite digestible and even beneficial. Tomato catsup may contain a small amount of salicylic or boric acid as a necessary preservative, which may agree with one and be harmful to another.

Wheat flour may contain a portion of corn flour and really be improved. Olive oil may be made of cotton seed oil. Butter may contain beef suet and yet be nutritious.

The person who buys and eats must protect himself and family, and he has a right to, and now demands, a law under which he can make intelligent selection of food.

Many pure food bills have been introduced and some passed by State legislatures; many have been offered to Congress, but all thus far seem objectionable.

It has seemed difficult for politicians to formulate a satisfactory bill that would protect the common people and yet avoid harm to honest makers and prevent endless trouble to retailers. No government commission or officer has the right to fix "food standards" to define what the people shall and shall not eat, for what agrees with one may not agree with another, and such act would deprive the common citizen of his personal liberty.

The Postum Cereal Company, Ltd., perhaps the largest makers of prepared foods in the world, have naturally a close knowledge of the needs of the people and the details of the business of the purveyors (the retail grocer) and, guided by this experience have prepared a bill for submission to Congress which is intended to accomplish the desired ends, and inasmuch as a citizen of the U. S. has a right to food protection even when he enters another State it is deemed proper that the government take control of this matter and provide a national law to govern all the states. A copy of the bill is herewith reproduced.

Section 1 governs the maker whether the food is put up in small packages sealed, or in barrels, boxes or otherwise.

Sec. 2 governs the retailer who may open a barrel and sell the food in small quantities. When he puts the goods into a paper bag he must also enclose a printed copy of the statement of the maker which was affixed to the original pkg. and inasmuch as the retailer cannot undertake to guarantee the statement of ingredients he must publish the statement of the makers and add his own name and address as a guarantee of his selling the food as it is represented to him, which relieves the retailer of responsibility of the truth of the statement and throws it upon the maker, where it properly belongs.

The remaining sections explain themselves.

The Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., for example, have from the beginning of its existence printed on the outside of each and every pkg. of Postum and Grape-Nuts food a truthful and exact statement of what the contents were made of, in order that the consumer might know precisely what he or she was eating. A person desiring to buy, for instance, strictly pure fruit jelly and willing to pay the price has a right to expect not only an equivalent for the cost but a further right to a certainty as to what he gets. Or he may be willing to buy at less cost a jelly made part of fruit juices, sugar and a portion of glucose. But he must be supplied with truthful information of the ingredients and be permitted to use his personal liberty to select his own food accurately.

The people have allowed the slow murder of infants and adults by tricky makers of food, drink and drugs to go on about long enough. Duty to oneself, family and nation demands that every man and woman join in an organized movement to clear our people from this blight. You may not be able to go personally to Washington to impress your Congressmen, but you can, in a most effective way tell him by letter how you desire him to represent you.

Remember the Congressman is in Congress to represent the people from his district and if a goodly number of citizens express their views to him he secures a very sure guide to duty. Remember also that the safety of the people is assured by insisting that the will of the people be carried out, and not the machinations of the few for selfish interests.

This pure food legislation is a pure movement of the people for public protection. It will be opposed only by those who fatten their pockets by deceiving and injuring the people. Therefore, if your Representative in Congress evades his patriotic duty hold him to strict accountability, and if necessary demand equitable and honest service. This is a very different condition than when a faction demands class legislation of the Congressmen. Several years ago the butter interests of the country demanded legislation to kill the oleomargarine industry and by power of organization forced class legislation really unworthy of a free people. Work people wanted beef suet butter because it was cheap and better than much unclean milk butter, but the dairy interests organized and forced the legislation.

The law should have provided that pkgs. of oleomargarine bear the statement of ingredients and then let people who desire purchase it for just what it is, and not try to kill it by a heavy tax. Manufacturers sometimes try to force measures in their own interests, but contrary to the interests of the people and the labor trust is always active to push through bills drafted in the interest of that trust, but directly contrary to the interests of the people as a whole. Witness the anti-injunction bill by which labor unions seek to tie the hands of our courts and prevent the issue of any order to restrain the members of that trust from attacking men or destroying property. Such a bill is perhaps the most infamous insult to our courts and the common people ever laid before Congress and the Representatives in Congress must be held to a strict accountability for their acts relating thereto. But when bills come before Congress that are drawn in the interest of all the people they should receive the active personal support of the people and the representatives be instructed by the citizens. The Senators also should be written to and instructed. If, therefore, you will remember your privilege and duty you will at once—now—write to your Congressman and Senator on this pure food bill. Clip and enclose the copy herewith presented and ask them to make a business of following it through the committee considering it. Urge its being brought to a vote and requesting that they vote for it.

Some oppressively intelligent and carping critic may say this is simply an advertisement for Postum and Grape-Nuts. It is true that these articles are spoken of here in a public manner, but they are used as illustrations of a manufacturer seeking by example, printing on each pkg. a truthful, exact statement of ingredients, to shame other makers into doing the fair thing by the common people, and establishing an era of pure food, but that procedure has not yet forced those who adulterate and deceive to change their methods, hence this effort to arouse public sentiment and show a way out of the present condition of fraud, deceit and harm.

The undersigned is paying to the publishers of America about $20,000, to print this announcement in practically all of the great papers and magazines, in the conduct of what he chooses to term, "an educational campaign," esteemed to be of greater direct value to the people than the establishment of many libraries. That is held to be a worthy method of using money for the public good. Tell the people facts, show them a way to help themselves and rely upon them to act intelligently and effectively.

The reader will be freely forgiven if he entirely forgets the reference to Postum and Grape-Nuts. If he will but join the pure food movement and do things.

C. W. POST.

TEXT OF PURE FOOD BILL.

If it meets approval cut it out, sign name and address and send to your representative in Congress. Buy two or more publications from which you cut this. Keep one for reference and send the other to one of the U. S. Senators from your State. Ask one or two friends to do the same and the chances for Pure Food will be good.

A BILL

TO REQUIRE MANUFACTURERS AND SHIPPERS OF FOODS FOR INTERSTATE SHIPMENT TO LABEL SAID FOODS AND PRINT THE INGREDIENTS CONTAINED IN SUCH FOODS ON EACH PACKAGE THEREOF.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That every person, firm or corporation engaged in the manufacture, preparation or compounding of food for human consumption, shall print in plain view on each package thereof made by or for them shipped from any State or Territory, or the District of Columbia, a complete and accurate statement of all the ingredients thereof, defined by words in common use to describe said ingredients, together with the announcement that said statement is made by the authority of, and guaranteed to be accurate by, the makers of such food, and the name and complete address of the makers shall be affixed thereto; all printed in plain type of a size not less than that known as eight point, and in the English language.

Sec. 2, That the covering of each and every package of manufactured, prepared or compounded foods shipped from any State, Territory or the District of Columbia, when the food in said package shall have been taken from a covering supplied by or for the makers and re-covered by or for the sellers, shall bear upon its face or within its enclosure an accurate copy of the statement of ingredients and name of the makers which appeared upon the package or covering of said food as supplied by or for the makers thereof, printed in like manner as the statement of the makers was printed, and such statement shall also bear the name and address of the person, firm or corporation that re-covered such food.

Sec. 3, That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to purposely, wilfully and maliciously remove, alter, obliterate or destroy such statement of ingredients appearing on packages of food, as provided in the preceding sections, and any person or persons who shall violate this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned not less than one month nor more than six months, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Sec. 4, That the Bureau of Chemistry of the Department of Agriculture shall procure, or cause to be procured from retail dealers, and analyze, or cause to be analyzed or examined, chemically, microscopically, or otherwise, samples of all manufactured, prepared or compounded foods offered for sale in original, unbroken packages in the District of Columbia, in any Territory, or in any State other than that in which they shall have been respectively manufactured or otherwise produced, or from a foreign country, or intended for export to a foreign country. The Secretary of Agriculture shall make necessary rules and regulations for carrying out the provisions of this Act, and is hereby authorized to employ such chemists, inspectors, clerks, laborers, and other employees, as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this Act and to make such publication of the results of the examinations and analysis as he may deem proper. And any manufacturer, producer or dealer who shall refuse to supply, upon application and tender and full payment of the selling price samples of such articles of food to any person duly authorized by the Secretary of Agriculture to receive the same, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding one hundred dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding one hundred days, or both.

Sec. 5, That any person, firm or corporation who shall violate sections one and two of this Act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding two hundred dollars for the first offense and for each subsequent offense not exceeding three hundred dollars or be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Sec. 6, That any person, firm or corporation, who shall wilfully, purposely or maliciously change or add to the ingredients of any food, make false charges, or incorrect analysis, with the purpose of subjecting the makers of such foods to fine or imprisonment under this Act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding one thousand dollars nor less than three hundred dollars, or imprisoned for not less than thirty days nor more than one year, or both.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is a powerful, invigorating tonic, imparting health and strength in particular to the organs distinctly feminine. The local, womanly health is so intimately related to the general health that when diseases of the delicate womanly organs are cured the whole body gains in health and strength. For weak and sickly women who are "worn-out," "run-down" or debilitated, especially for women who work in store, office or schoolroom, who sit at the typewriter, or sewing machine, or bear heavy household burdens, and for nursing mothers, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has proven a priceless benefit because of its health-restoring and strength-giving powers.

As a soothing and strengthening nerve-tonic, "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea, or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womanly organs. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Cures obstinate cases. "Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of "female weakness," painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus or falling of the pelvic organs, weak back, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration.

Dr. Pierce's medicines are made from harmless but efficient medical roots found growing in our American forests. The Indians knew of the marvelous curative value of some of these roots and imparted that knowledge to some of the friendlier whites, and gradually some of the more progressive physicians came to test and use them, and ever since they have grown in favor by reason of their superior curative virtues and their safe and harmless qualities.

Your druggist sells the "FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION" and also that famous alterative, blood purifier and stomach tonic, the "GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY." Write to Dr. Pierce about your case. He is an experienced physician and will treat your case as confidential and without charge for correspondence. Address him at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., of which he is chief consulting physician.

COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL

Chicago.

Trade conditions generally continued satisfactory, more force having developed in distributive branches together with an active demand in iron. In the successful exposition and its remarkable volume of sales the market here for automobiles shows gratifying advance. The lower temperature was quite beneficial to further large sales of heavy-weight apparel and footwear, retail stocks undergoing a desirable reduction.

Wholesale dealings make a very good comparison with a year ago, the forward bookings having extended in leading staples, and, with an increasing number of buyers present, house trade is more active in dry goods, clothing, men's furnishings, woollens and shoes. Mail orders from the interior reflect well sustained buying for country stores.

Commercial defaults compare favorably with last year, and, on a better offering of commercial paper, the discount rate is firmer at 5 per cent.

Manufacturing proceeds very steadily and a heavy demand for raw material has contributed strength to values, less weakness being apparent in quotations of hides and leather. Lumber and other building materials have been in exceptional request for early use, and growing activity appears in the woodworking lines, particularly mill work and furniture. The output of iron and steel in this district runs close to the limit of capacity, and, with an improved supply of cars, more promptness is effected in deliveries.

Bank clearings, $201,207,820, exceed those of corresponding week in 1905 by 17.0 per cent.

Failures reported in Chicago district number twenty-two, against thirty-two last week and thirty a year ago.—Dun's Review.

New York.

Spring trade in dry goods, clothing, shoes and millinery continues to show expansion, despite the presence of winter conditions.

Bank clearings are much smaller, reflecting decreased stock speculation, due to dearer money at the metropolis, a condition which looks artificial in view of the growing ease at all other centers. Collections are fair to good except in the South, where holding of cotton is a drawback, as for some time past. Summed up it may be said that there are a number of cross-currents visible, but a record spring trade is apparently all but secured and the future crop development will largely govern fall and winter trade, which as yet is of a small aggregate volume.

Business failures in the United States for the week ending Feb. 15 number 204, against 204 last week, 243 in the like week of 1905, 231 in 1904, 188 in 1903 and 228 in 1902. In Canada failures for the week number 28, as against 27 last week and 17 in this week a year ago.—Bradstreet's Commercial Report.

OUTBREAK OF CHINESE MOBS AT NANCHANG.

Fourteen Americans Escape, but an English Family Is Murdered—American Gunboat Ordered to Kinkiang—Trouble Far Inland.

Consul-General Rodgers at Shanghai has cabled the state department that the American mission stations at Nanchang in the province of Kiangsi have been destroyed. The probable cause is local. Telegrams received at Shanghai from Nanchang state that the fourteen missionaries escaped, but the Kinkiang family, English, two adults and two children are reported to have been killed.

The American gunboat El Cano at Nankin has been ordered to proceed immediately to Kinkiang. The scene of the trouble is about 400 miles up the Yangtze river. A later dispatch from Mr. Rodgers says that the inland British missions are reported to be safe. A cablegram from Commander Fletcher, the senior officer of the Raleigh at Shanghai, received at the navy department, confirms substantially Consul-General Rodgers' report.

Reports of rioting at the American mission station in Nanchang and the escape of eight American missionaries stationed there were received in cable at the Methodist board of foreign missions. The Methodist board has a mission station at that place. The cablegram, which was sent by Bishop J. W. Bashford, Methodist Episcopal bishop resident at Shanghai, and made public by Dr. R. H. Carroll of the Methodist board, is as follows: "Mission of Nanchang destroyed in riot. Methodist missionaries escaped on boat."

KILLED BY A QUAKE.

Colombia Is Shaken and 2,000 Are Reported Dead.

Two thousand dead as the result of tidal waves and earthquakes, fierce seismic shocks that have extended from Colombia to Costa Rica and panic along the entire Pacific coast in Central America—this is the summary of Monday's tidings from the stricken district. Two thousand are known to have been killed in Colombia, according to advices from that section. The entire coast has suffered another earthquake and tidal wave, which has taken heavy toll in human life. It occurred Wednesday and the coast for fifty leagues to the south was affected. Two thousand persons were killed by falling houses or drowned by the wave. Whole families were lost. Sailing vessels report having encountered hundreds of corpses. Many small settlements were completely swept away.

The earthquake occurred at 10:45 in the morning, lasting about seven minutes. The movement was from north to south. The town was considerably shaken. The damage, however, was small, but the people were thrown into a panic, kneeling, weeping and praying in the streets. Following the earthquake there was a tidal wave, which was of no consequence here, but the reports from the coast, including an area of fifty leagues to the south, state that 2,000 were killed by the falling houses or drowned by the wave, whole families having been lost.

The damage done by the earthquake and tidal wave at Tumaco was greater than here, and a few lives were lost. The shock was felt in the interior, and five people were killed at Tuquerres. At Poyayan the people resorted to tents, and thanksgiving services were held on Feb. 21 and 22. Twelve distinct shocks were felt, but it is believed that all danger is now over.

On January 31 an earthquake and tidal wave swept the Colombian towns of Mosquera, San Juan and Dominguez. The towns of La Tola, Antioqui, Barbacons, Poyayan, Tuquerres, Manizales and Pereira were badly damaged.

Most of the people in all the towns in the provinces of Esmeraldas and Manabí, especially Rio Verde, Camarones, La Tola, Limones, Borbon and Pingangi, were made homeless.

AWFUL PSORIASIS 35 YEARS.

Terrible Scaly Humor in Patches All Over the Body—Skin Cracked and Bleeding—Cured by Cuticura.

"I was afflicted with psoriasis for thirty-five years. It was in patches all over my body. I used three cakes of Cuticura Soap, six boxes of Ointment, and two bottles of Resolvent. In thirty days I was completely cured, and I think permanently, as it was about five years ago. The psoriasis first made its appearance in red spots, generally forming a circle, leaving in the center a spot about the size of a silver dollar of sound flesh. In a short time the affected circle would form a heavy dry scale of white silvery appearance and would gradually drop off. To remove the entire scales by bathing or using oil to soften them the flesh would be perfectly raw, and a light discharge of bloody substance would ooze out. That scaly crust would form again in twenty-four hours. It was worse on my arms and limbs, although it was in spots all over my body, also on my scalp. If I let the scales remain too long without removing by bath or otherwise, the skin would crack and bleed. I suffered intense itching, worse at nights after getting warm in bed, or blood warm by exercise, when it would be almost unbearable. W. M. Childers, Hutchinson, Kan., April 20, 1905."

A MEDICINE THAT CURES

Can we dispute the well-known fact that American women are nervous? How often does hear the expression, "I am so nervous, I tremble as if I should fly," or, "Don't speak to me," "Little things annoy you and make you irritable, you can't sleep, you are unable to quietly and calmly perform your daily tasks or care for your children."

The relation of the nerves and generative organs in woman is so close that nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous debility, the blues, sleeplessness and nervous irritability arise from some derangement of the organism which makes her a woman. Fits of

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles most always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sized bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.
